The Federal Appellants respectfully move the Court under Circuit Rule 27(h) for a 30-day extension of time to file their brief in this matter (from September 20, 2022 to October 20, 2022) and for a commensurate extension of the remaining deadlines in the briefing schedule. Appellees Black Rock City LLC and Burning Man Project do not object to the relief sought by this motion.

In support of this motion, Federal Appellants submit that this 30-day extension of time is necessary for the following reasons:

1. This case has been entered into the Court's mediation program. This extension will give the parties time to further explore whether any disputes between them can be resolved through the mediation process.

2. This extension is also necessary to complete the administrative process for determining whether the United States intends to pursue this appeal. See 28 C.F.R. § 0.20(b); see generally U.S. Attorneys' Manual, Title 2 (setting forth internal procedures concerning appeals). The United States cannot pursue an affirmative appeal without authorized approval by the Solicitor General, a high-level official within the Department of Justice appointed by the President. See 28 U.S.C. § 505. In addition to conducting all litigation before the Supreme Court in which the federal government has an interest, the Solicitor General is also responsible for determining whether, and to what extent, the United States will pursue an appeal in every case in which the federal government receives an adverse judgment in state or federal court. See 28 C.F.R. § 0.20(a), (b). The United States submits that this extension is necessary so that these internal deliberations can be completed. This time will ensure thoughtful consideration of whether to appeal, which is desirable as a matter of public policy. Cf. United States v. Mendoza, 464 U.S. 154, 161 (1984) (discussing the federal government's unique considerations taken into account by the Solicitor General in deciding whether to appeal adverse decisions).

3. There have been no previous extensions of these deadlines. Granting this extension will not require oral argument to be rescheduled because the Court has not scheduled oral argument in this case.

4. No party opposes the relief sought by this motion.

For these reasons, the United States respectfully asks this Court to extend the deadline to file their brief in this matter by 30 days (from September 20, 2022 to October 20, 2022) and for a commensurate extension of the remaining deadlines in the briefing schedule.

Respectfully submitted,

TODD KIM
